

Anti-Nuke-Lecture Autumn 2019

1. Nuclear weapons and nuclear power plants are the worst criminality against the humankind:

Whether use of nuclear weapons or accidents of nuclear power plants by natural catastrophe or human errors or terror attacks, the danger that the whole earth could be destroyed, contaminated and rendered uninhabitable forever, is drawing ever closer.

Nuclear disaster, which can be not excluded 100percent, could pollute the earth and not only human bodies but all kinds of lives with its radioactivity over hundreds and thousands of years and longer. But nobody can take responsibility.

2. e.g. Nuclear fuel reprocessing plant at La Hague in France

According to his official statement of the famous Japanese scientific journalist, Takashi Hirose, a disaster by a heavy accident of this plant could make the whole Europe or the most part of the northern hemisphere with its radioactive pollution uninhabitable.

3. Report on the current situation in the eighth year after the Fukushima Nuke Disaster:

- * The government has been using all kinds of tricks to bring the refugee families including children back to Fukushima, with the propaganda, "Fukushima is safe for everyone to live"

Return of refugees to Fukushima is being promoted at high pressure. The need for the cure of the children in Fukushima is ignored or not recognized by the government. Even the parents who want to go to the cure outside of Fukushima with their children are scolded by the fellow citizens often as cowards or traitors. (= in the background the conscious steering of the regional government of Fukushima prefecture in cooperation with the state government)

Everywhere the citizens are purposefully brainwashed by the pro-nuclear alliance of the government, the ministries and Tepco: namely, before the Fukushima disaster they always propagated again and again that the Japanese nuclear power plants were 100 percent accident-proof, although the technology can never be accident-proof, and after the disaster they say that there is no risk of radioactive diseases in Fukushima.

Is it really true?

Thyroid cancer of the children in Fukushima is rising, but the governmental physicians committee continues to deny any connection with the nuke disaster of Fukushima.

Fukushima Prefecture and its surrounding areas are still in constant health danger from radioactive radiation.

3-1. General situation of the children in / from Fukushima:

The government, the relevant ministries of state, the Fukushima Prefecture Administration, Tepco (Tokyo Electric Power Company) and the most of the Japanese doctors being under their pressure twist, conceal and manipulate all the unfavourable facts for their pro-nuclear policy. Even the judiciary in Japan is still fully under the influence of political power.

And the vast majority of citizens blindly believes in what is being told by them.

For example, in March 2017, an activist of a citizens' initiative (a relief organization for the radioactively ill or -very likely- children) unveiled that the administration of Fukushima prefecture and its extended arm, namely the Fukushima University Hospital as well as the physicians working under the influence of the Japanese government's pro-nuclear policy didn't any more take care of the children (aged 0 to 18 years old at the Fukushima disaster) who had been suspected of thyroid cancer but not finally confirmed at the second investigation. It came out that those children are 2152. Now they simply say afterwards that they have no information about the further results of their investigation. That means, after the second investigation, only the children who had been diagnosed with cancer and then operated are statistically shown.

So we don't know how many children of them may also be involved in the cancer.

In addition, unfortunately, we do not have any accurate public information on how many children in the surrounding areas of Fukushima Prefecture are radioactively ill. Concerning individual cases of children of thyroid cancer, who have fled Fukushima or have been in its surrounding areas you can hardly do any research. Even if they are registered in the hospital's card, they will be under the private secret data lists. And Japanese Ministry of Health seems to have absolutely no interest to publish it although they must know the number long ago.

But even so, e.g. a citizens' initiative "3.11 Foundation for thyroid cancer children" found out 12 such children:
namely: pref. Miyagi 1, Niigata 1, Gunma1, Nagano 1, Saitama 2, Tokyo 1, Kanagawa 4, Chiba 1 (as of Jan. 31, 2017).

However, this additional figure is, in fact, a fraction of the data being not collected statistically. So, presumably, the real number of the thyroid cancer children must be still significantly higher. Consequently, the number of the children in the undermentioned published list is only a part of the reality.

The following list shows the published number of children suffering from thyroid cancer in Fukushima, who were from 0 to 18 years old on 11 March 2011. And the number has been rising since 2011 as follows:

Time		Thyroid cancer Children	Ratio to the 300,000 Children in Fukushima

It was therefore a sudden and drastic outbreak of the Thyroid cancer of the children after 11th March 2011 in Fukushima.

Before the Fukushima disaster, the number of thyroid cancer children in Fukushima was known to be 0 and also in all the other regions of Japan, yearly between 0 and 3 or 4.

According to a research result of the Okayama Prefecture University (<https://news.yahoo.co.jp/byline/kinoryuichi/20151010-00050338/> on Oct. 10, 2015) it is mentioned that the number of thyroid cancers of children in Fukushima is after 2011 is 20 to 50 times higher than other prefectures in Japan.

It is also acknowledged by international leading medical scientists that the thyroid cancer ratio of the children is in normal environments between 1 or 2 to 1 million.

Despite all these facts, the government-controlled Japan's Medical Board does not acknowledge any relation between thyroid cancer children and the Fukushima disaster.

And there are still about 300,000 children (0 to 18 years old) living in the prefecture Fukushima and they are exposed to radioactive radiation every day. Nevertheless, almost all parents cannot flee with their children Fukushima because of financial reasons, they are also not able to take a cure outside Fukushima together with their children or even to send them alone for cure.

Neither the state, nor local government, nor Tepco (Tokyo Electrical Power Company) give any financial support to them. They say, they don't see any necessities for them to flee Fukushima as well as to take a cure.

The number of the children, who are invited by citizen's initiatives to the cure camps outside of Fukushima every year, even for a few days, with or without parents, is estimated around at 0.2%. And even a part of them won't have any more chance to get it because the citizen's donations are shrinking every year.

Almost without exception, the state and Fukushima prefectural government have all the doctors under their control and let them claim that there is no health danger by the radiation spread for citizens outside of the few remaining immediate evacuation zones and therefore, it is not necessary to take a cure for them although such an assertion cannot be scientifically justified.

The doctors who speak out against the government's pro-nuclear policy are boycotted and threatened by all medical organisations to be discharged from public medical institutions and hospitals, which are under the control of the government and the relevant ministries. Therefore, especially in Fukushima, but also throughout Japan, almost all doctors work exclusively on instructions from the government and their competent authorities.

The Fukushima disaster has clearly shown that in Japan there is no independent neutrality in the field of justice and science.

This shows the tragic reality that all people, especially all children in Fukushima and in its surroundings are vulnerably exposed to the radiant danger of radioactivity.

6. Details of the donation outgos:

- 6.1 15th June 2018 Donation (Yen:500,000-) to the Citizens' Initiative "Hoyoo-Net-Yokohama" (=Cure-Net-Yokohama) for the purpose to invite children from Fukushima to the cure camp in the Izu peninsula in summer 2018.

- 6.2 The cure camp outside the radioactively endangered regions still offers one of the most important recreation opportunities in the psychological and physical sense to the children and their parents in Fukushima. Nevertheless donations to voluntary cure camp organisers decrease every year. So also this citizen's initiative has the same problem. And I decided to support them with the donations from Europe also in summer 2018 because I know their cure camp quite well and that they organize it with many voluntary helpers in an exemplary manner and also that the location of the cure camp and the accommodation fulfill all the conditions in ideal wise.

The location of the cure camp:

The house for their stay is a very large, old house in the traditional Japanese style, located in the greenery and close to the Pacific beach. It belongs to the city Kawazu-cho of the SHIZUOKA Prefecture.

The house for the cure camp

The citizens' initiative Hoyoo (Hoyoo means cure)-Net-Yokohama collects applications since 2012 and has been inviting children with or without their parents in Fukushima to the cure camp in Peninsula IZU / Shizuoka Prefecture for approx. 10 days during the summer time (end of July to early August) every year. Until 2014, the organizer had paid all costs, i.e. transport, overnight stay, catering etc. for them while some families voluntarily contributed a little.

However it became no longer possible for the organizer to bear all those costs because of nonprospect of getting enough donations in the future, but on the other hand, the cure camp for the children is very important as before, therefore the members of the citizen's initiative asked the parents of the children to contribute approx. 1/3 of the total cost/per person). This means that the cost contribution for adult (over 16 years) Yen16,000.- per person / children 12 years and older Yen 8,000.- per person / children up to 11 years Yen4,000.- per person.

Then, this new regulation was not only promptly accepted by them, but also brought a positive effect, namely that the parents from Fukushima got a feeling how important it is, to continue the cure camp together also in future and to protect their own health. However, this rule does not apply to those families for which it is difficult to pay contributions.

All works of planning, organizing and implementing are carried out by the citizens' initiative and about 20 additional volunteers.

6.3 Cure camp in Izu:

Japanese government and Fukushima prefecture administration are reducing financial assistance to the victims of Fukushima and the public is silent, as if the radioactive problem of "Fukushima" doesn't exist anymore. On the contrary, the number of parents in Fukushima acknowledging the importance of taking a cure for them but especially for their children is increasing.

It is, of course, a tiny part of the children whom each individual citizens' initiative can invite to a cure camp. For example, this citizens' initiative can also invite at most only 7 to 8 families each summer because of costs and availability of voluntary members.

What I also find very positive about this citizens' initiative is that, with regard to the ever-decreasing amount of donations, they try to find a new method of solving problems.

That means: the families of Fukushima are gradually taking the initiative from year to year to organise the cure camp in Izu, while the citizens' initiative "Hoyoo-Net-Yokohama" (=Kur-Net-Yokohama) impart more and more its acquired know-how about organizing the cure camp to them. Of course, the citizens' initiative "Hoyoo-Net-Yokohama" is ready, to organize the cure camp as before, but more in cooperation with the parents from Fukushima and to support their own activities on this issue.

The last day of the cure camp in Izu in summer 2019

The children were happy, because every day they were allowed to be in nature as long as they wanted, which they could not do in Fukushima.

I think every child has the right to enjoy being free in nature. The Japanese government deprives the children in Fukushima of this claim and yet does not feel responsible for it... It is a real crime!

Every year we find that all children show their displeasure when they say goodbye. They say, they prefer to stay in Izu. Every time, we, all volunteers experience this scene, and have to cry inwardly and get anger against the government and the nuclear mafias.

7. Donation request for the children in/from Fukushima

The children in Fukushima are still exposed to radioactive danger everyday and living at great health risk for cancer etc. But also most of those children and their parents who fled Fukushima are suffering from great financial and psychological hardships.

Asking for donations for the children in and from Fukushima

My dear friends, I ask you from my heart:
Help the children with your donations!

* How do the citizens live in / from Fukushima and what are their problems?

Population in Fukushima Pref. : 2,028,752 in 2010,
1,928,086 at time of 1.May 2015
1,881,382 at the time of 1.Oct.2017
1,863,805 at time 1.Sept.2018

Decline in population: 164,947

Most citizens in Fukushima suppress their anxiety and frustration and want to comfort themselves with the illusion that state and the Fukushima pref. government would not let them down, so it would be quite reliable that the government says: "Everything is fine and no damage to health."
This is because of the fact that most citizens do not see any way e.g. to start their new life outside of Fukushima prefecture. Above all, they lack the financial means and the professional perspective.

Therefore, they are also jealous of those citizens who fled outside of Fukushima despite the financial difficulties. Usually they distance themselves from such refugees and secretly call them a coward or even a traitor.

Besides, there are also fellow citizens who stay in Fukushima for financial reasons but publicly protest against the government and claim financial compensation as a right. However, most citizens in Fukushima let intimidate themselves by the government and isolate such citizens from their circles.

The life of the fugitives and their problems

Most refugees from Fukushima Prefecture share the fact that they are coming from well educated social class and intelligent enough to think independently and critically. Furthermore, it must be mentioned that only small part of the refugees from Fukushima belongs to the wealthy social class and less financial problems also after their fleeing but most other refugees are coming from the middle social class and they are often still young or relatively young couples with small children, who are often confronted with the big financial problems in the place of refuge. For these reasons, husbands often feel to be forced to stay alone in Fukushima and to keep the job there and to send money to their refugee wives and children. However about half of those married couples are going divorced within a few years. Consequently, the divorced women get additionally extreme financial difficulties alone with her children.

The exact number of such refugee families is very difficult to know because many of them do not want to be officially registered in the district authorities of refuge place for the fear to be stamped as refugees from Fukushima.

Temporary public lodging within so-called safe areas in Fukushima for the refugee people having been evacuated by the local government from the Within-20KM-Zone.

They are still largely forced - without their own fault - to live in such primitive huts after 4 years (at the time of this interview), they do not even have individual bathing or shower facilities. Among them are people who commit suicide out of desperation.

Three older women, who until 4 years ago(at the time of this interview) had their own traditional farmhouses and rice fields, are living now in the Huts. Their family members who lived with them are now widely scattered in different places. They have lost almost everything, that had given them the meaning of life.

Nevertheless, they said, "the people, (= who are responsible for the disaster) are not guilty, only earthquake and tsunami are guilty."

They didn't make the question: "why they built so many nuclear power plants and have been operating them in Japan, even though they must know by themselves that in an extremely earthquake-rich country like Japan, a big earthquake and tsunami can come at anytime" - Too naive, unwary nature without any critical eyes.

Where does this behavior come from? It comes from the traditional Japanese mentality, namely obedience and self-sacrifice of the lower, weaker, younger people in favor of the higher, more powerful or older people in the social hierarchy as well as permanent readiness of self-sacrifice for the interest of the communities. Again and again, this mentality of many unsuspecting Japanese citizens, such as these women, has always been exploited and abused by the rulers in Japan preferably.

But it is very important to know, that this Japanese people's mentality has been created by the first Shogun Tokugawa-Ieyasu with his brain-washing of them to establish his powerful position over the whole Japanese territory as a monarch forever. He thought: the best way of establishing his power as monarch to keep the people under control is not by using the weapons but by using the mental instrument of brain-washing.

He built up a ruling network over the whole Japan during 17th century and sent his most loyal vassals as local district lord to every area of Japan and let them brainwash people into the absolute loyalty to the ruling system of Tokugawa-Monarch as the best and only virtue. He made a big success with this method and his Tokugawa-Dynasty kept its absolute control over Japan until 1867 for more than 260 years. Of course young Japanese people today are quite differing on some behaviors like a manner to older people or to their parents etc. However, most of Japanese people have still the main character of the typical Japanese mentality, namely to follow the people with more power, in higher social or job-related positions without any criticism or resistance, without thinking by themselves.

e.g. Radioactive contamination continues but.....

The Japanese government is now planning to remove the monitoring posts from pref. Fukushima and to stop publishing radioactive measuring data.

e.g. Olympiad 2020 as a diversion instrument to take away people's attention to the still existing enormous radioactive pollution risk of the destroyed Fukushima nuclear power plant to the environment and the citizens.

e.g. Trivialization, cover-up, concealment of the Japanese Nuclear Problems after the Fukushima-Disaster.

 Already put back into operation: 9 reactors until end of July 2019

Already 9 nuclear reactors have been put again in operation until end of July 2019. (reactor no. 3 and 4 in Genkai/Kyushu, reactor no.1 and 2 in Sendai/Kyushu, reactor no.3 in Ikata/Shikoku, reactor no.3 and 4 in Oi/Kansai and reactor no. 3 and 4 in Takahama/Kansai)

3. Global nuclear problem and the biggest crime of politics and economics:

 History of atomic bombs

In fact, since development of the first atomic bombs we began to live into the most dangerous, most destructive era in the human history.

In 1942, the United States launched the development of the nuclear bombs under the name "Manhattan Project".

The development history of the atom bombs is nothing else than the largest crime of the humanity having ever been committed in full consciousness of its most inhuman destructive consequences. It is a bundle of exterminations of countless people and irreplaceable environmental destruction. However its dark side has always been concealed or played down by all states owning atomic weapons.

 Human trials in the US with radionuclide injections as "top secret" by order of the States.

The inhuman atrocities began during the first development phase of the atomic bombs in the US before the release of the 2 nuclear bombs over Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Namely for the "Manhattan Project", not only the atomic physicists were involved with developing the atomic bombs, but also many medical doctors worked on researching the effects of radioactive nuclides on the human body, especially for military purpose.

After all, it has been discovered that leading medical doctors of the "Manhattan Project" made human experiments with injecting highly toxic radioactive plutonium into the body of 18 US citizens in top secret without informing them of it from 1945 until the end of this project. Moreover it came into sight that in the period between 1945 and 1989, 1,200 Americans were subjects of such experiments and became victims with radionuclides.

Stafford Leack Warren, medic and the chief of the medical department of the Manhattan Project. He instructed on the human experiments with the Plutonium injection at the 18 us citizens. He has also visited the city of Hiroshima and Nagasaki after bombing to investigate the countless civilian sacrifices.

The other medics, who performed plutonium injections on US citizens in secret.

Hiroshima and Nagasaki: Conscious mass killing of hundreds of thousands of civilians with the new nuclear bombs in order to demonstrate the military power with the new developed atomic bombs and to make experiments on the human bodies (victims) which was a clear violation of "Geneva Convention".

In September 1945, shortly after the unconditional surrender of Japan, General Douglas MacArthur issued orders which had their official validity until 1952 in Japan and they reads as follows:

1. All the Japanese irradiated victims are the top secret object of the US military.

= This means: all the Japanese nuclear bomb victims, whether dead or even on life, are solely under the control of the us military power and subject of their top secret radioactive human experiments.

2. All the Japanese irradiated victims as well as the Japanese doctors who treated them shall not record and document their symptoms and consequences on their irradiated bodies in no way and make not even notice about it.

3. The irradiated may not tell third person even their family members as well as relatives of their physical states.

4. The Japanese doctors are not allowed to talk with each other about the therapeutic Treatments of the irradiated persons.

5. The Japanese are not allowed to research radioactive contamination.

6. The Japanese are not allowed to do any written work on radioactive contamination.

To the above orders, the Japanese government did not have any say, they should only ensure their strict compliance.

That is the reason why hardly any Japanese doctors after the second World War made radioactive radiation as their research topic and therefore very few Japanese experts can be found in this area.

Atomic bomb tests

During the period 1946-1958 USA carried out in Pacific 67 atomic bomb tests. Among them was also the hydrogen bomb test of 1.3.1954 on the Bikini Atoll Islands in Pacific and its explosive power was 1000 times larger as a Hiroshima bomb and many islands in the Pacific were in large dimensions radioactively contaminated. The many islanders were irradiated but left by the USA for a long time without information and without compensation simply in a lurch.

Also Japanese fishermen became victims. At the moment of the explosion, as far as it was officially known, at least 992 fishing boats were in the near area - but in reality many more suspected.

After the extent of the radioactive damages had become ever greater and clearer, e.g. uncountable quantities of fish in the Pacific became radioactively contaminated and inedible, or many fishermen were heavily irradiated, among them, the well known sick and deceased fishermen aboard the fishing boat "Daigo Fukuryuu Maru" - the US finally paid the Japanese government 2 million dollars for the agreement that Japan shall no longer make radioactive measurements in the Pacific and shall also not investigate radioactive contamination of the fishes. This agreement was made 7 months later after the bomb test.

Also e.g. during a three-week-attack in the Iraq war 2003 the US and its Allied countries used uranium ammunitions between 1000 and 2000 tons, which are both chemically highly toxic and radioactive. Although the enormously large extent of the victims due to radioactive radiation and chemical poisoning has become increasingly clear and although worldwide voluntary civilian organizations offered to help in giving treatments to tens of thousands of children as well as disabled born babies, the official investigation of human victims and their publication have never been done by the USA and its allies for their political interest.

And not just the US, but also all the other nuclear powers, like Russia, England, France, China, etc. did nothing but conceal the contaminations as well as human sacrifice caused by their numerous atomic bomb tests.

Atomic bombs and nuclear power stations

The United States made great efforts in the 1940s and developed the atomic bombs and thus not only demonstrated their military power in the world, but also the US-American industrial groups had their new huge monopolies on business opportunities with all kinds of nuclear weapons production and their further developments with state money having been offered. That meant fantastic business to them, because it was financed with the state money, the client was always the fatherland, thus absolutely safe and profitable business. In addition - and that was even the most important - the expected sales were gigantic. Thus, the new nuclear weapon alliance began between the politics and business/industry branches in the US.

Only the US had in the later 40s of the last century 2 problems: one was the growing hostility of many Japanese citizens to the US for its mass extermination of innocent civilians by the atomic bombs and because of the incessant continuation of the radioactive consequential damage to the living citizens in Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Their Hostility could infect the other countries in Asia and disrupt the US military presence in Asia. Therefore, the generation of electricity by nuclear power is an ideal political means to propagate the great peaceful usability of atomic energy throughout the world and thus to improve the US image to the outside world. In reality, American scientists and engineers knew that nobody can take responsibility for huge disaster by radioactive contamination going over generations in case of big accident. But finally the new nuclear power plants were on the one hand the most unique trump card to the US politicians and on the other hand a huge-sized additional business to the US nuclear industries. They were able to use their know-how, which they already have for production of nuclear weapons, also for the production of nuclear power plants. In addition, plutonium, which is needed for atomic bomb production, will be won by nuclear power plants. Actually, They are two sides of the same coin. Because of these double wins, the politics and industries always want to hush up or downplay the enormous danger of them.

The other problem that the US had was the activity of the World Health Organization, WHO (= World Health Organization of UN).

Because WHO was able to raise the world public's attention to the enormous health risk for humanity in case of an accident of nuclear power plants, WHO was in the way of the American nuclear policy.

Therefore, the US disempowered the WHO in the matter of nuclear energy and empowered a new organization called the IAEA in it which shall demonstrate the merit and safety of nuclear energy for the interest of the US nuke policy.

The year 1959 was a day of defeat for the WHO on which they gave up their most important task, as being independent of any political power, influential monitoring organization to protect the health of all citizens in the world. Since that, IAEA became a lobbyist of nuclear powers and the nuclear industries.

Therefore, the IAEA can never be neutral and can never work for the protection of health of all world citizens because she is nothing else than one extended arm of the nuclear powers and nuclear industries and their task consists only to promote nuclear technology and thus to build nuclear power plants as many as possible in the world.

* The risk of nuclear catastrophe is increasing world-wide.

The danger of worldwide radioactive contamination and mass diseases as well as genetic disorders will continuously increasing worldwide over many generations. The nuclear power plants are being built on and on, spreading despite Chernobyl and Fukushima. And the nuclear industries will never renounce your profitable nuclear power business. Nuclear disaster is not a big obstacle for them, because they know exactly: in such a case always the fatherland comes as a savior, pays all damages from the tax money. They know that the state needs them. They have money and power. They are often actually stronger than the state.

Today we are facing the growing threat of nuclear disaster which can be caused not only by technical errors or human error, but also by terrorist attacks being carefully planned with intrigue.

Our task to protect our innocent children and future generations from nuclear weapons and nuclear power plants is so important as never before.

Thank you so much for listening.
